"The Forest of Enchantment" by Chitra Banerjee Divakaruni is a mesmerising retelling of the Ramayana from the perspective of Sita, exploring her journey, emotions, and resilience. Divakaruni's lyrical prose and vivid imagery bring the ancient epic to life in a fresh and captivating way, offering readers a deeper understanding of a woman's character and the complexities of her relationships. The novel beautifully explores themes of love, sacrifice, and empowerment, making it a must-read for fans of mythology and feminist literature alike. There is a hidden paradox in the book where readers can't wait to finish it, yet they would secretly wish the book to never end. Such is its beauty.
